NHA Inc., Air Vietnam Sign Joint-Venture Pact

By a WALL STREET JOURNAL Staff Reporter

LOS ANGELES — NHA Inc. said it signed a formal long-term joint-venture agreement with Air Vietnam, the national airline of South Vietnam, for a three-stage postwar reconstruction program.

The joint venture is called NHA-Air Vietnam Services. The initial stage involves an estimated $40 million in annual revenues for the maintenance of rotary and fixed-wing aircraft to be used for either military or commercial purposes.

The second stage involves commercial development and construction of air transportation facilities including hotels, airports and related maintenance.

The third stage involves training of additional Vietnamese technical staff to meet anticipated expanding needs of the venture.

NHA is a diversified engineering and construction company specializing in total task technical and engineering services, real estate development and industrial design and construction. NHA will provide marketing, management and operational personnel with responsibility for overall management in the agreement. It also will provide U.S. technical personnel to augment Air Vietnam's technical staff.

Texas Firm Expects Viet Pilot Pact

By LEE EGERSTROM

Pioneer Press
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON. — A Texas firm is expecting to receive contracts today from the Defense Department and the Canadian government to supply helicopter and airplane pilots for South Vietnam.

The Canadians are seeking American pilots to fly soldiers who are part of the International Commission for Control and Supervision (ICCS) established under the cease-fire agreement in South Vietnam.

However, a spokesman for NHA, Inc., of Fort Worth, Tex., said his firm also is expecting contracts from the Defense Department and said he didn't know what pilots recruited under those contracts would be doing.

Ray Perry, a recruiter of pilots for NHA, indicated in a telephone conversation that the company expects to receive confirmation of Defense Department contracts today.

A member of the House Armed Services Committee, conducting an investigation after seeing newspaper advertisements for pilots, said late Thursday the Defense Department has not confirmed that it will offer contracts to NHA.

Rep. Charles Gubser, R-Calif., said he learned the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) was not involved in any NHA-hired pilots for South Vietnam.

NHA has current contracts with Air Vietnam providing civilian pilots and maintenance personnel. That airline is about 85 per cent owned by the South Vietnamese government with the rest held by French private interests, Gubser said.

Gubser said late Thursday that he was seeking information from the Pentagon whether American funds will be used for pilots in Vietnam, and what work these pilots would be doing.

Sen. William Proxmire's office also has started inquiries into the use of American pilots in Vietnam.

The Wisconsin Democrat, frequently a critic of the Defense Department, wants to know if these pilots will be "mercenaries" paid by the Pentagon to skirt the cease-fire agreement which limits American involvement, an aide said.

Advertisements have appeared this week in large daily newspapers stating, "South Vietnam, NHA, Inc. now accepting applications for helicopter pilots — fixed-wing pilots."

"Possible Feb. 10th departure. Must be FAA or military certified and possess second class flight physical. Helicopter pilots must be certified in UH-1 or 204, 205 and 206 Bell helicopters."

Perry acknowledged that Canada wants pilots to fly the ICCS inspection forces in South Vietnam.

Canada, Hungary, Poland and Indonesia have supplied the international forces sent to monitor and carry out the cease-fire agreement signed by the Americans, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong.
